Guide to Financial Aid Self Service for Students

Massachusetts College of Art and Design is committed to providing the resources needed to fund each student's education and ensuring that access to a chosen field is not limited by the cost of attendance. Currently more than 1,100 students at MassArt are receiving some sort of financial assistance totaling over fifteen million dollars.

It has been the experience of the Office of Student Financial Assistance that students and families who take the time to understand the financial aid process benefit by receiving the maximum amount of financial aid for which they are eligible, while enjoying a financially stress-free college year.
